BOLIVIAN LAUNCH BIG OFFENSIVE

South America In Turbulent State.

NEW REVOLT IN BRAZIL.

Pacificatory Efforts Of Nations Fail.

Asuncion, To-day.

Bolivian troops opened a heavy offensive in the Gran-chaco region to-day, advancing against the Paraguayan positions under a heavy artillery protective bombardment. The advance was commenced from Fort Bouqueron and the Paraguayan lines are threatened seriously.

For more than a month, hostilities have been noticeably increasing and the original sporadic military actions in the frontier zone have developed into grave proportions.

The work of the League of Nations to prevent the outbreak of war, and the abortive attempts of intermediary nations to stop bloodshed, have left the political situation unchanged. Paraguay and Bolivia have ignored threats and warnings alike. The suggestion of the neutral powers that Bolivia should be given a "corridor seaward," much the same as that given Poland to settle a long-standing controversy in Europe, met with no sympathy in the South American capitals.

Buenos Aires, To-day. Warlike preparations are proceeding in Brazil, where the Government is faced with a new revolutionary movement of alarming dimensions.

Three other states besides Sao Paulo, including the powerful province of Para, have risen in revolt against the administration and are threatening to march upon the Government forces hastily summoned to subdue the uprisings. There is every likelihood that the revolt will not be settled one way or another without large loss of life and destruction of property. — Reuter.

STRIKE CONFERENCE ARRANGED.

Labour Ministry Acts In Cotton Dispute.

London, To-day. The Ministry of Labour is to-day issuing invitations to the Cotton Strike Conference which will probably take place in Manchester on Tuesday.

The Ministry will be represented at the Conference by Mr. Leggett its Conciliation Officer, who is in Manchester to-day in consultation with leaders of both parties to the dispute in the cotton industry. — British Wireless Service.

FRESH AND CLOUDY.

To-day's weather report from the Royal Observatory states:—

Pressure is now highest over the lower Yangtze Valley. Depressions are situated over N. Japan and to the South of Hainan. Forecast: N.E. winds fresh; cloudy, occasional rain.

FORECASTS DRAW REBUKE TO LYTTON REPORT.

But Commission Findings Actually Unknown.

Berlin, To-day. The recent forecast on the Lytton Report has aroused no press comment with the exception of "Lokalanzeiger," which describes it as a "makeshift report" and says as an attempt to suggest anything approaching a decision doing justice to both sides, it has failed.

The comment is based on reports from Peking and Tokyo, but the Lytton Commission findings are actually not officially known. — Reuter.

BRITAIN REDEEMS CREDITS

Financial Triumph Of Treasury.

HEAVY TASK REMAINS.

$90,000,000 Required To Repay War Loan.

London, To-day. A triumph in British National Finances has been achieved by the prompt repayment, which was announced to-night, of the 2,500,000,000 francs credit subscribed in 1931 by French investors during the financial crisis in Britain, when the nation dropped the gold standard.

The whole of the foreign credits, from France and the United States, obtained during the national emergency, have now been repaid.

A heavy task still awaits the Treasury, but it is confidently expected that the programme will be readily carried to a successful conclusion.

London authorities estimate that roughly $90,000,000 will be required to redeem the balance of the War Loan which is still unconverted, while $150,000,000 in Treasury Bonds will be converted or repaid during the Autumn.

Such an accomplishment is looked upon as a stroke of genius and will go far towards increasing the confidence of the world in British credit. A favourable reaction, on the completion of the debt retirement programme, is anticipated in Stock Exchange and money markets. — Reuter.

Lance-Sergeant Lal Singh was commended by Mr. Schofield in the Central Police Court this morning for his smart capture of a Chinese, who was travelling in a rickshaw with a leather suitcase, the property of Miss Shila Hama Taneyea, living at 206 Lockhart Road. The bag had been taken from the footpath while Miss Taneyea had been upstairs for a short while. Sentence of two months' hard labour was passed.

FRIGHTFUL TOLL IN SHIP EXPLOSION

MEN HURLED TO DEATH IN NEW YORK HARBOUR

37 BODIES ALREADY FOUND

New York, To-day.

Thirty-seven bodies have already been recovered, and the worst is feared for many of those who are missing, following the explosion which blew a passenger ferry literally out of the water in the harbour here yesterday. Every one of the 200 men on board, all of them civic labourers, was injured more or less seriously. About 60 are still unaccounted for.

Herbert Sutcliffe, playing in his second last match of the season, still continued to reveal the magnificent form which has enabled him to pass the 3,000 mark this season; and rattled up 108 while Maurice Leyland contributed 70 against the Indian attack. The England side to tour Australia, led by Lord's, and were dismissed for the low total of 213. Wyatt taking the only wicket to display any nervousness while scoring 61.

Germany Can't Pay U.S. Debt

France Considering Postponement.

LARGE SUMS ARE DUE.

Paris, To-day.

With the report that Germany has notified the United States Government of her inability to meet interest payments due on August 30, it is noteworthy that French financial and political circles are awaiting the French Government's decision regarding the payments to America due September 15.

Excluding capital repayment, France should pay approximately $39,000,000 before the end of the year. It is anticipated that she will pay the interest only and postpone the capital instalment.

Incidentally, France's national gold supply is the second largest in the world, second only to America's.

Washington, To-day.

Mr. Ogden Mills, U.S. Secretary of State, announces that no formal notice of the postponement of debt repayments has been received from Germany. He had been discussing the matter with the German Embassy and had received no intimation of defaulting on the part of the Reichstag from that source. Nevertheless, the payment is already some days overdue. — Reuter.

Small Fields For Macao Race Meeting To-morrow

(By Wombat.)

The Macao Jockey Club have an interesting card for racing fans to-morrow afternoon and a large number of our local sports will be making the trip over to see the Fourth Extra Meeting which commences at 2.30 p.m.

The track is in ideal condition for racing and judging by the number of entries received I am sure we shall be able to look forward to a very entertaining afternoon's sport.

On account of the tides the s.s. Taishan will be leaving at 8.45 a.m. which is a little earlier than usual. Still late-comers will be provided for by the company which have arranged for the s.s. Sut Tai to leave Hong Kong at 9.30 a.m.

The s.s. Venezia will be leaving at 9 p.m. as usual and she can make the trip in very fast time. I am told that there is little accommodation left on the Taishan so those intending to make the trip would be advised to book early as possible as a very big crowd is expected.

Only small class races will be decided to-morrow but the stewards are confident that the racing will be quite equal to anything yet seen at Macao.

IMPORTANT PARLEY ON ARMAMENTS

Geneva, To-day.

Mr. Arthur Henderson, chairman of the group, has convened the Disarmament Conference for September 21, according to an announcement made officially to-day. The nations have been instructed of the date of the meeting and preparations are already under way to take care of the numerous delegates here.

The Conference will be important in many ways, but more particularly in the light of recent developments, and since Germany has signified her intention of withdrawing from all such conclaves unless she is allowed to reorganise her army and assume an equality of footing with respect of matters military.

There is little doubt, however, of Germany's participation in the coming meeting. — Reuter.

London, To-day. A Geneva message states that the meeting of the Bureau of the Disarmament Conference has been called for September 21, following an exchange of correspondence between Mr. Arthur Henderson, President of the Conference, and Sir, Eric Drummond, Secretary-General of the League of Nations. According to a resolution of the Disarmament Conference, such convening cannot be postponed, though should Germany fail to send a representative to the meeting. The Bureau has the power to adjourn its deliberations to a later date. — British Wireless Service.

MR. CECIL NEAVE IS CALLED BY DEATH.

Sudden Passing Of Popular Figure.

The death occurred in the French Hospital last night, of M. Cecil Neave, of the staff of the Hong Kong and Whampoa Dock Co. Ltd., at a comparatively early age of 29 years. He had not been in the best of health since he returned from leave recently.

Mr. Neave, who has been with the Dock Company for about five years, entered the French Hospital about a month ago. He was a native of Newcastle-on-Tyne. He was formerly a member of the Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps. He was popular among his colleagues and his passing will be felt deeply. The funeral takes place this afternoon, passing the Monument at 5 p.m.

KIDNAPPED CHINESE SEIZED IN CONCESSION RAID.

Bloodshed Averted By Cool Handling.

CONSULATE TO PROTEST.

Shanghai, To-day.

The situation at Shanghai becomes more complex politically to-day with the French Consulate preparing a protest to Japan against the raid by Japanese plainclothes men into French concession territory to capture a Chinese prisoner, and their near clash with Annamite Police of the French Concession Constabulary.

There is strong public resentment against the action of the Japanese, who are believed to have been detectives attached to the Special Consulate Police. Ten of these men, in a powerful car, drove to a Korean restaurant in the French Concession and forced an entrance there. They seized a Chinese, the brother of the Chinese amah in the place, and drove off.

The captive has not yet been released. It is presumed that the men sought a Korean, possibly suspected of having had a part in the May bombing incident at Hongkew Park, when so many Japanese officers of high rank were injured, a general fatality.

Police intervene. Annamite police, one of whom was on duty near the Korean restaurant at the time of the raid, and who summoned assistance, attempted to interfere with the Japanese operation.

The two French Concession officers, however, were brushed aside and the Japanese continued their work, searching the premises and holding the prisoner. They were aware and watchful of the threat of danger from the armed constables, who, realising the unusual nature of the situation, held their fire.

Ordinarily, the Annamite police are quick to act in emergency and are proficient with their weapons. On this occasion, had they not remained collected they might have precipitated an international crisis of the gravest sort.

The Cortes, the Republican Government, to-day passed the Catalan Statute, giving the people of Catalonia virtual home rule in a wide measure sought for years by the "provincial" people. But at the same session, they took away from their nobles all that remained to them in lands and properties.

Yesterday, it was known that the Bill would pass for the Government backed in solidarity. Yet when the ruin of the nobility was completed, deputies cheered and cheered like schoolboys on a holiday.

Choosing Clothes For The Holiday

Accepted "Festive" Colours

Smart Crepe-De-Chine Tea
Frock

There is always a joy in choosing clothes for a holiday, and there must be special satisfaction just now because the accepted "festive" colours are so lovely—creamy white, blue and a brilliant sunshine yellow, writes Colline Rouff.

With these three, you can make up all kinds of lovely schemes, for blue, or yellow, or both, can be worn with the cream as a background. With blue as the chief colour cream and yellow can be used in lovely ways. And if you decide to make the finest effects with yellow, the other two colours can play their parts as accessories.

Cream crepe-de-chine makes a beautiful tea frock, with which can be worn a fairly large hat wreathed with blue or yellow ribbon "flowers" which a flat bag to match the flowers will complete the toilette.

For the morning, a suit of blue fine cloth is nice, with a blouse of voile striped or spotted in yellow and cream. A blue stitched cloth hat can have a band of two narrow gros grain ribbons, one cream, one yellow.

A tailored frock of yellow silk or wool crepe can have a scarf of crepe-de-chine spotted or striped in blue and white.

You notice that I say spotted or striped! That is because there is such a craze for both that I cannot tell you which is the more chic. At the same time, I consider stripes the nicer, because they are a little newer. Spots are more easily found, however. Even crepe-de-chine and chiffon powder-puff sachets are spotted, while lingerie and sleeping suits are often made of silk.

Clothes for Evening.

The most exquisite clothes are to be found for the evenings this season. I have talked about pique and organdi, so they must pass, only I must emphasize that they are very smart, and can be laundered, or pressed with a warm iron, and restored to freshness very quickly. Therefore, one pique gown will save the necessity of taking away several changes, because one day with the laundress will make it fit to take up its place of decorative usefulness again. You cannot say that of a satin or marocain gown which has become soiled!

Lace gowns are very much to the fore again, mounted on foundations of taffetas, which give them added beauty. The taffetas, slip is beautifully moulded to the figure like a gown, with the usual fullness below the knees, and the lace takes the same lines.

One model was in fine black lace over a slip of yellow taffetas. It was made with a long moulded skirt, which finished in a pleated flounce, and had a waterfall frill beginning under a large yellow velvet flower at the back of the waist and continuing to the hem of the frock. This lace frock had also a black slip and a rose-pink flower, and a white slip and a trail of white gardenias, so you can see how useful it would be. The girl who bought it didn't mind a bit that all her friends would know it was one frock, with different trimmings. She merely intended to enjoy herself changing the slips and flowers when she liked.

TAXIS LOSE FARES FROM WOMEN.

DRIVES HERSELF.

London, Sept. 1.
Apropos of the dullness of the late season, one hears sad tales of the bad business done by taxicabmen. The last six weeks which should have been their harvest have been the leanest on record. Men who a few years ago could easily earn 25 a week now think themselves lucky to clear £2, even by working 14 hours a day. Not a few owners, drivers unable to pay for the annual overhaul have been selling their cabs at give away prices.

The fact is there are too many cabs on the streets. By the latest returns there are 7,600 vehicles and 11,150 licensed cabmen. In hard times like the present, a taxi is the first luxury to be put down, and the comparative dearth of visitors from abroad has meant further loss. But in addition, and possibly more serious than these factors, is the competition of the baby car. These now are such charming little vehicles, so pretty, cheap and easily run, that numbers of people, particularly women, who would formerly have used taxis, now keep a "baby" for running about London, as an adjunct to the big car reserved for long distances.

And then there are the buses and tubes. If you are in a hurry—and who is not?—the tubes are the only way of getting about and everybody uses them. As for the buses, no more luxurious public vehicle could be found in any city. Everybody uses them too. I see that some foreigner has been commenting on our genuinely democratic behaviour in buses and tubes. The old underground still has two classes, but all other public vehicles have only the one, though certainly Paris and I believe New York have the two classes. In London we all mix up happily—dukes and mannequins.

So one way and another, pity the poor taxi-men.

LACTOGEN

As Baby thrives—really thrives—grows stronger—more sturdy—is healthy, happy, active—with firm flesh, dense bone, steady nerves—you can positively see how much good Lactogen is doing.

Lactogen is pure, fresh, full-cream milk, with extra cream and natural milk sugar added, dried and made germ-free, easily digestible, and in all important respects exactly like breast milk.

Lactogen nourishes Baby the way Mother's milk should nourish. Even the most delicate Baby can take Lactogen as the sole food from birth.

The pure sweet milk for Lactogen comes from specially selected herds that graze on rich Australian meadows. Close inspection, rigorous tests, hygienic, air-tight packing ensure absolute purity and unvarying quality, wherever or whenever you buy.

Doctors and Nurses now say with confidence, "There is now a better milk for Baby—Put your Baby on Lactogen."

THE KING

KNOCKS THE

THEATRE

OUT OF THE THEATRE

THE MOST COMFORTABLE AND THE ONLY AIR-CONDITIONED THEATRE IN HONGKONG

Humidity A Factor In Cooling Theatre

Dry Air Needed For Purity And Coolness

His essay, a highly technical and advanced piece of work, follows:—

Modern theatre design includes some kind of system whereby the interior air is properly treated to warm, cool, or purify it, as circumstances require. In the temperate zones, where variations of temperature during the year may vary between zero weather in December and torrid days in June, provisions must be made for both heating and cooling the inside air. In the tropics, variations in temperature are not so great but the troublesome factor is the humidity.

All air-reconditioning systems are designed to control the per cent of moisture or the humidity of the air wherever the system is used, as well as the temperature.

In laying out the air control system for the King's Theatre, a study was made of the prevailing characteristics of Hong Kong climate over a long period of time. Data secured from the local weather bureau records over twenty years indicated that the temperature range in Hong Kong could be expected to vary between 78 deg. F. with a general average of 80 deg. F. The relative humidity or moisture content of the air expressed in a convenient percentage was found to be about 81 per cent. at the average temperature of 80 deg. F. Now, relative humidity is the ratio of the actual amount of moisture contained in a unit volume of the mixture to the amount of water this volume holds at the same temperature. If it were saturated. In other words, if the air were "wringing" wet, the humidity would be 100 per cent. measured in pounds of water vapour per cubic foot of air. Now, if partially saturated air is cooled at constant pressure, until a certain low temperature is reached, the water will condense out of the air just as it does during a cloudless night in the temperate zone when we say the "dew falls." This explanation of the theory is essential in understanding the operation of the air-reconditioning system.

for public gathering places. The primary object is to provide a means of controlling the humidity of the entering air, as well as the actual temperature. Cold, wet air would provide a most disagreeable atmosphere but dry air, even a little below outside temperature, is most enjoyable.

Steady Temperature.

The equipment installed in this theatre is designed to supply clean air throughout the house so that, when it is filled with people, the average temperature will be about 79 deg. to 80 deg. F and the relative humidity about 60 per cent. This means that the air inside will have only about one-third as much moisture in it as that contained in the outside air, providing delightfully cool. Dry atmosphere in which one can relax and refresh himself even on a hot, sticky day. To accomplish these three results, viz., purification, drying and cooling of the air, a complete plant has been installed. The essential units are the ammonia compressors, condenser, brine cooler, air washer and circulating fan all electrically controlled. In practice, cold brine is rapidly circulated through a series of tubes over which the incoming air is drawn by the fan. Jets of water spray on this air, washing out of it all dust and impurities. Its passage over the chilled coils cools it to a point where the water vapour condenses out. It is then drawn through the fan and forced into the duct system, which is installed above the ceiling of the main portion of the house and above the seats under the balcony. The cool air is displaced by warm air, rises and is finally returned to the washer through the duct.

YOU must come over!

"mushrooms" under the seats on the floor. After repeated changes and washings the entire atmosphere inside the theatre will be brought to about the same temperature and humidity. Sudden changes in the outside air, some of which is constantly being introduced into the system, such as increase in moisture content or rise in temperature, will be taken into account and the compensating allowances made in the system to again establish a uniform inside atmosphere.

The brine circulating pump is rated at 500 G.P.M. against a 50-foot head, thus giving about 25 lbs. pressure through the brine cooler and coils of the air washer. It is direct connected to a 16 H.P. induction motor running at 1,450 R.P.M. The water used in the spray system for purifying and cooling the air is circulated by a pumping unit similar to the brine pump described above. This is pure water drawn from the Colony water system.

Elaborate Plans
The circulating fan for the house is a positive acting low pressure blower, horizontally mounted and running at 575 R.P.M. It is driven by three 20 H.P. motor units, each rated at 20 H.P. and 550 volts. The fan is connected to the main power supply through a switchboard and is controlled by a thermostat.

condenser requires a relatively large amount of cold water. Study was first made to see if water from the local mains could be used, and then re-cooled by means of a cooling pond or tower, but it was found that the amount required and the cooling area necessary entailed prohibitive costs. It was, therefore, decided to use SEA water for cooling the condenser. A pump house was built near Blake Pier. A direct-connected centrifugal pump rated at 400 G.P.M. at a 65-foot head, driven by a 20 H.P. motor puts sea water through 1,100 feet of 6 inch pipe to the condenser from whence it flows back to the Sea through the nullah which flows under Pedder Street.

Besides the air-conditioning apparatus described above, the refrigerating room also contains the main control switchboard for the entire theatre and adjoining rooms and offices.

The general contract was given to York Shipyard Ltd. of Shanghai, agents in China for the York Co. Arrangement and erection was done by the Chinese Engineering and Contracting Co. Ltd. of Hong Kong. The total cost of the air-conditioning system was about £10,000.

Boy Essayist On Modern Theatre

Comfort Of Clients Developed HEALTH METHODS

This is the prize-winning essay of Tsi Shu Man of St. Paul's College for which he receives a gold medal from the King's Theatre. His topic, the modern cooling system in theatres and more especially in the King's Theatre, was set by competition rules.

Here is his own story:—

To-day the popularity of Cinema Theatre cannot be denied. The number of theatres throughout the world is increasing daily, and they are becoming so popular that the people now prefer patronizing them to attending the ordinary theatres.

Not only do the proprietors of Cinema theatres provide their patrons with the productions of the most famous screen stars, but the greatest attention is paid to ways and means for ensuring the comfort of their customers, particularly during the hot and sultry Summer months of the year.

In order that patrons may sit and enjoy the masterpieces of the leading screen artists in comfort, the most up-to-date methods are being tried and adopted for cooling and purifying the air inside the Cinema Theatres.

In the majority of existing theatres the atmosphere is hot, unhealthy and suffocating, and the only methods of cooling in use are ventilating fans. Owing to the crowded state of the theatre, the air remains hot and polluted till the audience disperses.

The air which we breathe is the source of life and serves as a carrier of heat and moisture to or away from our bodies, and the heat of humid surroundings is most uncomfortable and depressing, as everybody who has experienced a Hong Kong Summer will know.

"Used Up" Air.
In the past, little was known of the evil of breathing "used-up" air, and each state of the atmosphere was termed "musty." By theatre-goers of these days and was suffered by them without complaint. However, more recently theatre owners began to realize the importance of ventilating theatres by allowing the hot air to escape and fresh air to enter. The method of purifying the atmosphere by using a cooling system is now being adopted in many theatres.

The first system tried was the Carrier System, which cooled the atmosphere by means of ice. There are, however, certain drawbacks to this method, as the building must necessarily be kept tight and if fresh air be allowed to enter it interferes with the cooling process, which must then be repeated, and besides, there is as much moisture in the atmosphere as before and the relative humidity is higher.

Constant Humidity.

The latest method of air-conditioning, as installed at King's Theatre, provides for a constant temperature and constant state of humidity, besides ensuring a continuous supply of pure, cool and well-oxygenated air. This new system keeps the air inside the theatre relatively pure and wholesome and at a temperature of about 78 degrees Fahrenheit and a humidity of 55 per cent. to 65 per cent. in Summer, and at a temperature of about 70 degrees Fahrenheit of 35 per cent. to 40 per cent. in Winter.

The fresh outside air is drawn through an opening by a fan and then passed into the Spray Chamber, where it is washed and cooled to the desired temperature by jets of water from the refrigerator of the Spray Chamber. The air, having been cooled to a temperature of about 45 degrees Fahrenheit, is passed out of the Spray Chamber to the Mixing Chamber, where 75 per cent. of conditioned air is allowed to mix with 25 per cent. of the warm air from the theatre. The air is now correctly cooled and conditioned, and is blown into the theatre by a fan. This method of air-conditioning is now being adopted in many theatres.

STUDENT ESSAYS ON KING'S THEATRE.

Gold Medals Awarded To Two Competitors.

The prize-winners in the King's Theatre essay competition, the topic of which was the theatre's modern cooling system, have been announced. The standard of the essays is exceptionally good.

The winners are:—

1. Tsi Shu-man, St. Paul's College, gold medal.
2. Chau Kim-ying, Munsang College, silver medal.
3. Tsoi Mong-yiu, St. Paul's College, book.

Other entrants were awarded complimentary tickets to the 8.30 o'clock performance at the King's Theatre.

The prize-giving will take place to-day at 5 p.m., the Hon. Dr. S. W. T'sao having consented to distribute the awards.

The winner of the first prize, in his essay shows a remarkable knowledge of the hygiene of the present day theatre, and stresses the desirability of up-to-date cooling methods. He comments on the drawbacks of the old Carrier Method, and a visit paid to the theatre to inspect the workings of the new cooling plant has enabled him to give a clear and concise account of the methods at present employed.

the ceiling and other points of the theatre, providing a continuous supply of pure, fresh, cool air, till the performance is over and the audience disperses.

"The Waste" Air.
Under every seat in the theatre there are perforated openings, through which the used air inside the theatre is continuously being drawn off and passed out of the theatre.

After each performance, and after the floor has been swept and cleaned, all exits are thrown open and the old air is entirely removed in about two minutes by starting the small "exit" fans and the three big centrifugal fans which are installed in the roof of the building for this purpose. This ensures a supply of pure, fresh and cool air at every performance under most sanitary conditions.

"GROCK"—QUEEN'S THEATRE.

"Grock" a masterpiece German production, with the world famous Grock in the leading role, supported by an outstanding cast, opened at the Queen's Theatre to-day to crowded performances.

The film is loaded with interesting turns by Grock, the greatest acrobat, musician and entertainer. After thirty years of hard work, Grock decides to retire from the stage, and to make life fuller he marries a young lady, Liane Haid. He is unaware that his wife is more interested in his money than his fame as a clown. Grock buys a chateau. Years pass, and he eventually discovers the mistake he has made in living the life of a nobleman and being married to a young girl.

Drama reaches its heights when Grock recognises some of his old friends in a circus, passing by the chateau. He invites them to dinner, and while there, the real guests, invited by his wife and the Count, arrive. They are shocked, and his wife's reputation is ruined. She leaves him for ever. Later Grock has a reunion with a friend, and commences life all over again as a clown.

The supporting cast includes Betty Bird, Max Van Embden and Harry Hardt.

"THIS IS THE NIGHT"—KING'S THEATRE.

Roland Young, Judith Wood, Charlie Ruggles and Lily Damita form a formidable and laughable quartette in Fox's comedy presentation "This Is The Night," which opens at the King's Theatre to-day. For its spice and hilarity of situations it vies with "One Hour With You," while the Viennese and Parisian settings add much to this bright film. It is full of witty dialogue.

Young and Ruggles, the comedy team in "One Hour With You," hardly leave the screen, and there is not a dull moment, as the scenes move rapidly with ever-increasing laughter.

Young is in love with Miss Wood, whose husband is a powerful javelin thrower. To ally his suspicion, Young pretends he is married. His friend, Ruggles brings a snappy French girl, Miss Damita to pose as the "wife." Her charm attracts Young and he falls in love with her.

Cary Grant, who is to play in "Farewell to Arms" is seen initially in this film. Recommended.

"THE BELOVED BACHELOR"—ORIENTAL THEATRE.

Based on a play by Edward H. Peeples, "The Beloved Bachelor" now playing at the Oriental Theatre, portrays Paul Lukas as a thoroughly lovable personage. He adopts a girl, Dorothy Jordan, and falls in love with her when she grows up.

The film, for the most part, is pleasantly entertaining.

Throughout the play keeps on romantic lines, with good splashes of humour supplied by Charlie Ruggles, Marjorie Gatenson and Harold Minjar. Recommended.

"NO LADY"—STAR THEATRE.

Lupino Lane has boundless opportunities to exploit his highly popular gifts of comedy and acrobatics, in "No Lady" Britain's first big thrill-comedy which opened at the Star Theatre to-day. In addition to Lane's great performance, the story itself is refreshingly British, with breezy Blackpool backgrounds and settings.

"SHE WANTED A MILLIONAIRE"—MAJESTIC THEATRE.

In "She Wanted a Millionaire," now being screened at the Majestic Theatre, a poor working girl marries an eccentric millionaire and gives her faithful small town lover the cold shoulder, to find jealousy destroying her happiness. The action is apt to drag in the early part of the film, but picks up its tempo as it goes on.

Joan Bennett, Spencer Tracy, and James Kirkwood, all do well. Una Merkel is excellent as the amusing wisecracking reporter.

"THE LOVE PARADE"—TAI PING THEATRE.

Ernst Lubitsch's greatest success "The Love Parade" starring the lovable pair, Maurice Chevalier and Jeanette MacDonald, is having a season at the Tai Ping Theatre, where it is drawing crowded houses.

The film has all the sparkle that goes to make spicy entertainment.

"WINGS"—CENTRAL THEATRE.

One of the most remarkable sound synchronisation films ever made was presented at the Central Theatre yesterday. "Wings" is the Paramount epic of the "Aces" of the World War (War), and is a marvellous piece of realism that records for all time, the war as it was fought in the air in 1917 and 1918.

Richard Arlen, Gary Cooper, Charles Rogers and Clara Bow are featured players.

"WHEN A FELLER NEEDS A FRIEND"—QUEEN'S THEATRE.

Perhaps few picture-goers who are accustomed to seeing Charles "Chic" Sale on the screen in deft portrayals of wrinkled gray-bearded old men have any idea that the versatile, Mr. Sale is in reality an extremely young chap, without a line in his face.

In "When a Feller Needs a Friend," coming to the Queen's Theatre shortly, "Chic" Sale and Jackie Cooper have co-starring parts and the former appears as Jackie's elderly Uncle Jonas, who is bent on overcoming the youngster's fear of "mixing in" with other boys.

"When a Feller Needs a Friend" is an adaptation of the late William Johnston's novel, "Limpy," the story of a crippled boy who becomes a "regular feller" in spite of his physical handicap.

Harry Pollard directed the new film, and the cast includes Ralph Graves and Dorothy Peterson, as Jackie's parents, Andy Shuford, Helen Parrish, Donald Haines, Gus Leonard and Oscar Apfel.

"WORKING GIRLS"—KING'S

Charles Rogers has another strongly dramatic role in "Working Girls," the King's Theatre feature on next Thursday. In the "The Lawyer's Secret" and "The Road to Reno" he showed capacity for strong dramatics, so he was shifted from personality parts to those of heavier intensities.

Rogers, since his appearance in a winning personality role in "Wings," is one of those lucky young men who found themselves in pictures without much planning for a screen career.

"DEVOTION"—CENTRAL THEATRE.

The Central Theatre announces the opening on Sunday of Ann Harding's new RKO Pathe production, "Devotion," her first starring vehicle of the new season, made from Pamela Wynne's well-known novel, "A Little Flat in the Temple."

It is a new type of picture for Miss Harding in which she plays a double role one as her charming self, and the other a dowdy, middle-aged governess.

A cast of extraordinary proportions has been assembled about this always dependable star. Leslie Howard plays the masculine lead, and in lesser roles are such fine character players as O. P. Heggie, Robert Williams, Dudley Digges, Louis Closser Hale, Allison Skipworth, Tempe Pigott, Little Douglas Scott and many others. Robert Milton directed.

ISN'T SHE LOVELY?

Skin like a peach, lips naturally red, eyes bright and clear, and a smile that tells you that she is full of good spirits. She might not be of good spirits, but every woman should know that internal cleanliness is the only way to genuine beauty. And for that purpose there is nothing better than Pinkettes, the favourite laxative.

Pinkettes gently banish those accumulations of waste matter that are a menace to skin beauty, the stagnation in the liver that dulls the eye, and the stomach derangement that causes sallow complexion and unhappy facial expression. If you value good looks take Pinkettes occasionally. And you'll not only look better, but you'll feel brighter for this little attention to your internal needs. All chemists can supply you.

Currency Problems.

The majority report of the gold delegation of the League of Nations' Financial Committee emphasises the fact that one of the major defects of the economic organisation of to-day is that debt has so largely taken the place of ownership. The alteration in the financing of enterprise, which was already becoming extensive before the war, has made the crisis the more acute, because debt on an industry is a fixed charge, whereas the owners' capital takes only what is left after all other charges are paid. The wages of debt accrue from day to day, whether the industrial unit is in operation or not. The change in procedure is due to the willingness of both debtor and creditor. The creditor in the past has favoured it because he thought it gave him a sure return without the risk of fluctuations; and with a greatly lessened risk — indeed, he would think it a bare risk in many cases — of loss of capital. The organiser of industry, the debtor, favoured the procedure because he got capital at a cheaper rate than what he would be expected to pay as a dividend, and thus made the earnings of dividend on the owner's capital the easier. The greater part of the debts of the world were contracted during a period of mounting prices; whatever goods they purchased, either for war or for construction of works, were purchased at prices far above those of to-day. Nor is the position different with regard to the debts of industrial enterprise and of real estate. The products of the works which they financed are not sufficient to provide for costs of production, including interest; the works themselves, in cases, are not worth the debts for which they are security. That is the reason why matters of currency and exchange are so important. One's way out is offered even if it is the only way, and to which many countries have been forced to turn. The currency fall is price level which brought about the present economic condition of the world, the minority report of the League of Nations' gold delegation blames the maldistribution of gold, its unbalanced acquisition by the United States and France, due to reparations and war debt payments, together with the refusal of those countries to permit the gold standard to operate according to the rules of the game. The minority, which comprises the two British delegates, a Belgian economist, and the Swedish representative, declares that to pave the way for a restoration of the gold standard the gold standard countries should take steps to raise the level of their prices to the level of 1928. While waiting therefor, other countries off the standard, having regained a large measure of freedom through their abandonment of the gold standard, the report points out, should aim, by means of managed currencies, at the restoration of the price level of 1928, or at least restoration of commodity prices to a level more in harmony with wages and debt charges, and at the maintenance of stability at that level. Were common action taken, mutual stability of exchange would give greater freedom of trade, next in importance to the relief given to the debt charges, public and private, by the higher prices obtained for commodities. Two schools of thought exist in the British Empire regarding the problem of raising the price level — one which seeks a world agreement; the other which, while favouring world agreement, advocates Britain taking the lead now and inaugurating an Empire agreement. World agreement might be long in coming. There would probably be a third school, which, failing an Empire agreement, would advocate each dominion stabilising at the level which it believed suitable for its economic conditions. If it is conceded that an Empire agreement would have advantages in face of the rest of the world being disunited, that in itself is sound argument for some measure of advantage from independent action, falling Empire agreement. A part is better than nothing. Sir Arthur Salter could be cited in support. He advises countries off the gold standard to work out a system by which each can maintain substantial stability of prices within its own area, at the same time to co-ordinate their policies, and to make every effort to work a concerted managed currency policy which will avoid dangers usually fatal in the past.

JAPANESE SAILORS IN UGLY SCENE S.M. POLICE SAVE NANKING RD. DEVELOPMENT

BITTER SHANGHAI COMMENT ON JAPANESE ATTITUDE

The following leading article appeared in the North China Daily News on September 5.

Tact, firmness, and promptitude displayed by the Shanghai Municipal Police averted an ugly development of the situation created on Friday evening in the Nanking Road by a party of Japanese sailors, travelling in two motor lorries and coming into conflict with the traffic regulations. Leaving out of account the Japanese Press Union's version, published elsewhere to-day, there can hardly be two opinions regarding the incident. The motor lorries had the red signal against them; their attempted disobedience of it nearly resulted in the running down of a Chinese youth engaged in greasing the tram-lines. The young man, not unlike other human beings in such a plight, was incensed and hurled abuse, admittedly coarse, as it certainly would be, at the Japanese sailors. Meanwhile the Sikh policeman on duty had to come down from his tower to enforce the regulations and the Japanese sailors thought fit to "arrest" the man they had nearly killed. The alarm having been given, reinforcements of police, with foreign officers, duly arrived and took charge of the "arrested" Chinese who, on a visit to the police station with his Japanese "captors," was duly released, after statements had been formally made.

Thus was Shanghai saved from a clash which, if handled less efficiently by the Police, might have had most deplorable consequences.

Special Efforts Made.

During the last week special efforts have been made by Chinese and Japanese authorities to tone down a situation which has been developing signs of acute tension. To such efforts the regular forces of the various Governments stationed in Shanghai are naturally expected to contribute. When everything has been said in condemnation of Chinese activities which seek to further the criminally foolish boycott campaign, it is still necessary to consider whether the patrolling of certain areas by Japanese naval forces has been carried out with the discretion demanded by the electrical atmosphere prevailing.

It will be agreed that the Japanese authorities are faced with a problem of some difficulty. They have to reckon with the unavoidable reactions from the situation in North. They must feel that, for the safety of their community and their forces, the reality of the Naval Landing Party's presence has to be made clear. At the same time there has been an uneasy impression that the process of "trailing" the coast has not been entirely absent from some of the demonstrations made by Japanese blue-jackets, whether on patrol or on motor-lorry journeys of considerable frequency through the streets of the Settlement. It is axiomatic that the guardians of law and order — which the Japanese forces, like the other regular forces here, really should be — must be specially alert in times of stress to avoid creating situations. In normal circumstances the fracas of Friday evening might be dismissed as an accidental collision to which the best intentioned sojourners in a strange land might be unexpectedly exposed. It happened, however, to have followed various incidents of the same kind but less under the eye of the public.

Police Difficulty.

It is common knowledge that, in the areas which are the special care of the Japanese Naval Landing Party, the Police have constantly had difficulty in asserting their authority. There is an unhappy history in this matter. During the disturbances of the early part of the year the Shanghai Municipal Council had to exercise considerable tact and forbearance in the endeavour to moderate the pretensions of Japanese regular forces in respect of the control of those areas. The apparent "ballet" by those forces that "trailing" regulations have no meaning for them has persisted to an embarrassing degree. It is not too much to say that the Municipal Police have displayed restraint to the point of almost neglecting the rights of non-Japanese traffic in their desire to avoid complications in the neighbourhood.

Esprit de Corps.

The esprit de corps of the Police ranks to the interests of the public peace have been one of the outstanding features of Shanghai's administration during the past year. The real problem for the Japanese to consider is the necessity for impressing on all their naval forces the importance of obeying regulations framed for the observance of the public without distinction. Nowhere is it easier to obtain such obedience than in a regular force, subjected to severe discipline. Specious excuses such as the extemporary repertoire of Chinese citizens, the ignorance of the customs and language of a strange country, might afford pleas in mitigation for the eccentricities of civilians. They are irrelevant when the issue is that of the conduct of a body of disciplined sailors, engaged, apparently, on military duty. There may be a "sort of war" up North. Here in Shanghai peace is supposed to reign, actually as well as technically. The motto therefore for all custodians of that peace should be "restraint." Otherwise the presence of armed forces is not a protection for the civil population but the source of activities comparable with those of the agent provocateur.

Rejuvenation Over.

"I have finished with my rejuvenation work," he added. "It is known all over the world, and accepted."

"I have now 22 monkeys which have been grafted with human cancer and have been cured."

"I have tried to give them cancer again, but they cannot be infected. Each year I have modified my method, and now it seems successful so far as the monkeys are concerned. Later we will try it on human beings."

stances and with special regard to Friday's incident, it seems amazing that the Japanese Press Union, which has peculiar access to Japanese consular opinion, should consider it appropriate to launch a formal attack on the Municipal Police, thus repudiating its questionable performance of last Spring when it directly contradicted Mr. Shigemitsu's warm tribute to the conduct of the same Police. It is true that an attempt is made to differentiate between foreign and Chinese members of the Police Force. That, indeed, makes the Japanese attitude only the more deplorable.

SECRETS OF LYTTON
REPORT KNOWN?Reliable Source Sees Favour For Japan.

MANCHURIAN SOLUTION.

Sino-Japanese Co-operation
Believed to be Suggested.

Tokyo, Yesterday.
Tokyo is flooded with reports, from unofficial, but reportedly reliable sources, of several decisions and suggestions embodied in the Lytton report.

According to one, the Commission recognises that it is impossible for Manchuria to return to its former status, and suggests the country be demilitarised, and, assisted by Japanese advisers, continue to be retained by China under nominal sovereignty.

Another report received in official quarters comes from a source in Peking connected with the Commission and says that "Japan has won most of the points, and consequently ought to be satisfied with the Lytton report."

According to this informant, the report

(1) Gives both the Chinese and the Japanese contentions but makes no judgment on them.
(2) States that individual Japanese held to establish the Manchukuo regime, unassisted by the Japanese Government, although it subsequently extended its support, seeing that the new State was friendly.

(3) States that the Japanese military authorities have exceeded the necessities of self-defence, although the officers and men have acted in the belief that their conduct was within limits of self-defence.

(4) Does not mention a word about aggression, and
(5) Declares that the Chinese volunteers have been supported by Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang.—Reuter.

DISCOVERY OF
NEW COMET.In Neighbourhood Of
"The Serpent."

Cambridge, Mass. Aug. 10.
A new comet has been discovered by Kenneth A. Newman, a young astronomer at the Lowell Observatory, Flagstaff, Arizona, it was announced here by Harvard College Observatory, American clearing house for astronomical news.

Mr. Newman first saw the new visitor to our celestial neighbourhood on June 1, but he did not report his discovery until he had made the three separate observations needed by astronomers to calculate the orbit of a newly discovered body in the heavens. These observations he made on the nights of June 1, 7 and 20.

Newman's Comet, as the new find will be known, is of the thirteenth magnitude, so faint that it can be seen only with a powerful telescope. Like many of the smaller comets, it lacks a tail.

During the time it has been under observation, the comet has been in the neighbourhood of the constellation Serpens, the Serpent. It has been moving toward the northeast, and about June 7 crossed the celestial equator, an imaginary line in the heavens directly over the earth's equator. Its position when last observed by Mr. Newman was in the astronomical equivalent for latitude and longitude, right ascension fifteen hours thirty-seven minutes, declination seven degrees, fifty-six minutes north.

Aged Village Lies In
Happy DreamOld As The Norman
Conquest Times

WON'T HAVE RAILWAY

There is an English village that will not have a railway station, a village so old that it was a bequest from Earl Godwin to King Harold before Norman William laid it down in his Domesday Book.

Odiham, known in the olden days as Wood-ham, is rooted in the Hampshire woods about half-way between London and Southampton. By road you reach it through Guildford and Farnham; by rail the nearest station is Hook, two and a half miles away.

It is a village that sleeps, and smiles in its sleep, and as it sleeps it dreams.

Of what does it dream? Let the old crooning cottages tell, the cottages that are so different and yet the same. Look at them slumbering in the generous High Street, where the mail coach with its "Tantivy" and the post chaise with its "Hullo there!" went jingling through the echoing archway of the old inn, writes James Dunn in the "Daily Mail."

Tales from Trees.
Homelike, and yet not a home alike. Here a plain-fronted stucco, there a mass of hanging creepers; a low pitched roof nestling among its taller neighbours, and again a portico raised on ionic columns.

These timber-framed dwellings creak and whisper. They tell the tales they have learned from the trees; tales of the olden time when Odiham, then known as Edefele, with 137 villans, 60 borders, 50 serfs, eight mills, a wood for 160 hogs, and two churches.

Here are stocks and a whipping post, now crumbling, but a signpost in the backwood path reminds us that in 1375 these stocks and whipping post outside the churchyard railings were set up "to encourage virtue, and make an example of evildoers."

The stocks are crumbling, but when they were new Odiham was old.

Casket of Romance.
The church of All Saints wryly smiles at time. A queer church it is. They say it had its beginning in the days of the second Henry.

It is merely the casket of dead romance, the end of the story of the loves of lords and ladies who lived in the woodlands, hunting, loving, fighting, dying in the long ago. More I was interested in the old George Inn, now called hotel. Here in the High Street is one of the old coaching inns that mean more to social history than do the stately homes of England.

This is the sort of inn, well built, well furnished, with its kitchen garden and its spreading stables, its ostlers and waiting maids, its warm welcome, and its groaning table that our great-grandfathers used to know, and where they used to talk and deplore that old England was not as it used to be.

Here sat down to dinner the brave gentlemen wearing cravats and small swords, and the fair ladies in gowns more sumptuous than revealing.

Cricket in 1787.

And even in those days the sleeping village, still dreaming, would murmur: How new and strange they are! The village was dreaming of the imposing grey tower of King John's Castle, dreaming of the snuggling almshouses, dreaming of the old Grammar School founded by Robert May, who was neither a Roundhead nor a Cavalier, but just a gentleman.

Myself drinking good beer in polished pewter tankards, I could not recapture the romance of Odiham when it was Edefele, but easily I could return to the merry days of 1787 when Odiham played cricket, and played it very well.

Very much I like this townlet that dislikes a railway station. It is not decadent; it is defiant. It lives in the past, during the present, and for the future. You won't find a tea cafe, a bed and breakfast house, a cottage, that caters for the passing stranger in Odiham. But you will find a peace of mind, a peace of mind that surpasses understanding, a peacefulness that only age can give.

Listen to the cottages crooning, each with a different voice. It is an old maid's tale they tell, the tale of romance that only old maids know, and this tale of old comes from the heart of the woodland, told by whispering trees that man who wanders may wonder about the brave days when in the greenwood Wood-ham was a holding of Winchester.

Now do you understand why Odiham does not want a railway station? The village is sleeping and dreaming, dreaming of the days that were and refusing to awaken to the things that are. The doors go by in swift cars and see nothing; the dreamers remain and know everything that matters.

MARXIAN IDEALS
DISTORTED.Soviet Applies Them
To The Fishes.

AMAZING TENDENCY.

One of the most widespread and amusing features of Soviet intellectual life has been the effort to apply the Marxian method of dialectic materialism to the most varied branches of art, knowledge and science. That political theory, economics, and philosophy should be considered from a strictly Marxian viewpoint is taken for granted. In the same way there is a tendency to judge books, plays, and paintings largely, if not entirely, by the criterion of their fidelity to the Communist outlook on life.

And the claims of "dialectic materialism" have been asserted in the most unlikely and unexpected fields. An article published in a magazine devoted to the fishing industry, for instance, contains the following extraordinary metaphysical passage: "The fish is a dynamic process rather expression, in all its categories. Just in this is the classical dialectic clarity of the fishing industry."

This piscatory philosopher finds a rival in a certain Comrade Gubkin, who laments the absence of Marxist-Leninist theory in Soviet forges and foundries, and pronounces the judgment that "Not one technological process must be carried out; not one machine must be set up or ordered from abroad without an adequate Marxist basis." A journal entitled "For Marxist-Leninist Natural Science" blazons forth such slogans as "For Party Spirit in Mathematics" and "For Purity of Marxist-Leninist Theory in Surgery."

Voice of Protest.
A well-known Communist professor, A. Stetzky, recently raised a voice of protest and ridicule against this tendency, in which he sees a vulgarisation and distortion of the ideas of Marx and Lenin.

He observes that some Soviet scientists, instead of mastering their subject thoroughly, prefer to indulge in all sorts of pompous "Marxian" generalities, and coldly inquires: "What is the value of a declaration about party spirit, in mathematics, if the people who proclaim this slogan do not know mathematics?" "Stetzky characterises as charlatans people who profess ability to teach 'how to operate blast furnaces on the basis of Marxism-Leninism or how to build houses on the foundation of dialectic materialism.'"

Professor Stetzky recommends that the special societies of "Marxist Physiologists," "Marxist Mathematicians," and "Marxist Musicians" which have grown up around the Communist Academy (one of the higher Soviet research institutions) should be dissolved and that their members should join the broader Soviet scientific association.

Should this recommendation be carried out it would be in line with the recent Communist Party decision to terminate the existence of the special societies of "physiologists," "mathematicians," and "musicians" on the ground that these organisations had become "bourgeois and reactionary," and that they were "not in line with the programme of the Party."

INDIANS SING IN LOST TONGUES.Ancient Songs Are Recorded.

CLING TO INTEGRITY.

Washington, Aug. 15.
Songs in a forgotten language, used but not understood by the Seminole Indians of the Florida Everglades, have been recorded on gramophone records for the Smithsonian Institute.

The songs, which, it is believed, may date from very ancient times, are used at the two great Seminole annual gatherings—the summer corn dance and the autumn ceremony preceding the hunting season. They were assembled by Miss Frances Denmore, who has returned from four months among the Seminoles.

The Seminoles take pride in their pure blood and avoidance of contact with white persons, she said. In one group of 500 there are only 17 mixed bloods. Mysterious "old men," who dwell far back in the swamps and seldom visit the white settlements, are the rulers of the Seminoles. Seeking to maintain the integrity of their tribes, the "old men" have ordered that their people must not learn English—or at least not learn to speak it. They wish to preserve the Seminoles as a distinct people.

As a result, Miss Denmore found, the Seminoles will go to almost any extreme to avoid uttering an English word, even if they have a smattering of the language. A few men of the tribe are allowed to speak English to white persons to make necessary transactions.

"It is as if the whole tribe had taken a vow of silence," she said. "They will respond by gestures and understandable facile expressions, but they will not be trapped into admitting knowledge of the English tongue. The only exception is when they sometimes hame prices for articles they wish to sell!"

HOLLYWOOD WANTS LOVELY LEGS.

Hollywood, Aug. 31.
A leading film company is looking for a pair of beautiful legs, with very small feet attached. Or, as the director says:—"I want legs with a blonde temperament, if you know what I mean."
No matter how beautiful the owner of the legs may be, her face will not be shown in the film. In the scene in which the girl will appear, her voice will be used, and she will have a slipper on only one foot—so if she can express ideas with her toes, the handicap of a hidden face may not be so great.

AMERICAN POLO TEAM TRIUMPH

Break Chain Of British Successes.

SIR PETER GRAIN'S CUP IN SHANGHAI.

7 GOALS TO 5.

Shanghai, Aug. 28. The American team scored a thoroughly well-deserved victory yesterday in the match for the International Polo Cup, which was presented by Sir Peter Grain after Great Britain had won Mr. Cunningham's trophy outright.

Apart from anything that happened on the field, the Americans' success was the best possible tribute to the few Americans who have been striving for many years to bring their nationals into prominence at polo—and the four who represented America yesterday perhaps may be regarded as the four who have striven most earnestly—and who have so far succeeded that Americans now have come very near to dominating Shanghai polo.

The result of the match was not a surprise, nor would it have been much of a surprise if the Americans had won by a greater margin than 7-5. For the major part of the game it seemed a certainty that the difference would be about six goals. Actually, they did get an eighth, but the final bell went just as a player's stick met the ball and so, though a goal was scored, it did not count towards the further rout of the British.

Serious View.

Shanghai Americans have taken their polo very seriously, have put plenty of good money into the purchase of the best ponies on the market, and have run a regular polo academy at Kiangwan. They now have a glut of good men and good ponies. The British naturally were captained by McMichael, the first choice for any local polo team for which he is eligible. Robinson always would be an equally certain choice, and the British were so short of first-class players that, even though Robinson had not recovered from his accident of a few weeks ago, he had to be brought in. Hayes, although even yet not showing any outward signs of extreme old age, can remember when jockeys rode in side-whiskers and a four-in-hand was a fast means of locomotion, but he also had to be brought in. The fourth was Howell, not heavily weighted with years, and a vigorous and reasonably accomplished player, but not yet quite what is expected in Shanghai's best teams.

Forlorn Hope.

The pony McMichael used in the last chukker was about the only one in the whole team to compare with any of the Americans and thus the British were beaten by speed and handiness if not by anything else. McMichael, who is never beaten on the polo field, played a terrific game for a large part of it. He almost played the other four by himself, but that could not last. Robinson, with his injury, was almost a passenger; generally he waited behind in his captain's position and did what he could with long and accurate hitting, and in that he served the team well. Howell and Hayes tried hard all the time, but far too often they were not up to take advantage of the big drives that came from behind, and all the time they were outdriven by men on better ponies. At that, Hayes got three goals and two of them were beauties.

Vigorous Riding-off.

On the other side, it was difficult to distinguish between Fritz, Burdick, and Allman, or all were really good, and the hitting of Fritz and Burdick was splendid. Franklin was not at his best, though by no means a failure. A feature of the game was the very vigorous riding-off, McMichael doing most of it for the British and having Fritz and Burdick providing most of the opposition. All three showed how it really should be done.

Great Britain: Hayes (1), Howell (2), Robinson (3), McMichael (4) (captain). America: Allman (1), Franklin (2), Burdick (3), Fritz (4) (captain). Major, Beaver, and L. K. Taylor. Referee: H. D. Rodgers.

KOWLOON GOLF CLUB MEETING

V. C. Labrum Elected President.

ONLY $3,000 IN LOANS RAISED TO DEFRAY PAVILION COST.

Tribute To E. R. Price.

The eighth ordinary annual meeting of the Kowloon Golf Club was held in the West Lounge of the Y.M.C.A. yesterday evening.

The meeting was for the purpose of receiving from the committee a report, balance sheet and statement of accounts for the year, ending June 30, 1932.

An election of officers and committee also took place which resulted in the selection of Mr. V. C. Labrum as President of the Club for the next year.

CHAIRMAN'S SPEECH.

Addressing the members, Mr. J. H. Hunt opened the meeting.

Gentlemen:—The Annual Report and Statement of Accounts have been circulated to the members so I will now formally move their adoption. We have had a most satisfactory year in every respect. The outstanding feature, of course, being the opening of the new Club House by H.E. Maj. Gen. J. W. Sandilands. I should, again, like to thank H.E. for his interest in the Club and for the gift of his photograph which occupies a honoured place in the Club House. We are also grateful to the Hon. Mr. W.E.L. Shenton for his gift of a clock and our thanks are due to all who have in many ways helped in matters connected with the building. The Committee was gratified in receiving the sum of $276 from the members towards the cost of the furniture. The appointment of Messrs. Linstead and Davis as Treasurers has been fully justified, for the financial work had become so heavy that we could no longer expect it to be done by an honorary treasurer.

Mr. E. O. Murphy rendered great service in that capacity prior to the passing of the accounts to the new treasurers. Considering the heavy expenditure of the past year, our financial position is very satisfactory. To defray the cost of the new building we have found it necessary only to raise $3,000 in loans from members. In a short time we should be free of debt. I am sure the members of the Committee would like me to express our appreciation of the untiring energy of the Hon. Secretary, Mr. E. R. Price. I know that my duties as Chairman of the Committee have been lightened by having such a proficient secretary. We are pleased to say that our relationships with the military authorities are as cordial as ever and we have every reason to expect they will remain so. We would congratulate Mr. F.E.A. Remedios on again winning the Club Championship and also the other winners of the various competitions held during the past year. The incoming Committee will find the affairs of the Club in a healthy condition and with the assurance of the loyal backing of the members we can look forward with every confidence to the future.

At the conclusion of Mr. Hunt's address which met with the approval of the members, the election of officers took place.

We wish Mr. Sargent and his boys every success in their venture.

CONGRATULATIONS

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

SOUTH CHINA TROOP.

Mr. H. S. Mok Elected President.

A tea party was held during a recent week-end at Caroline Hill, to welcome members of the new Committee Messrs. Chan Tit-yat and Li Wai-choy of the South China Athletic Association who are attached to the Scouts.

Games were played by the Scouts and a pleasant time was spent. Mr. H. S. Mok, Vice-Chairman of South China Athletic Association has been nominated President of the troop, subject to the approval of the Commissioner. He will, no doubt, give great help in connection with the movement.

Mr. Chak Ho-ke, who was Hong Kong Scout, has joined as Assistant Scoutmaster.

Mr. Tang Sing U, Scoutmaster, resigned since July.

A Healthy Appetite

A sure sign of the strengthening influence of Sanatogen is the remarkably quick return of a healthy appetite. And no wonder! For the invigorating influence of Sanatogen on all the organs of your body and especially on those nerves which regulate the functions of the stomach and intestines, make it an ideal strengthening food when loss of appetite is the trouble.

Give Sanatogen a trial - you will be surprised at its invigorating influence.

THE BILLY BOYS' WORKSHOP.

A Useful Plant Stand.

Oak is the most suitable wood to use for this plant stand, but a softer wood, such as deal, may be used if the finished work is stained and varnished.

For the legs, four lengths of one-inch square wood, three feet long, will be required, and these should be well rubbed with glass-paper on all sides.

Cut the four shaped parts, A, from pieces of half-inch wood measuring six inches by five-and-a-quarter inches. Make the arch at the bottom of each with a key-hole

THE HORN FAIRIES.

The happenings in this story were all put down to the carelessness of the Royal Messenger. But it was the Wind's fault in the beginning.

It was like this:

The Fairy Queen was giving a christening party for the youngest baby Princess. The Royal Messenger had delivered all the invitations but two—the one for the Dawn Fairies and the one for the Sunset Fairies. He was just taking them round before settling down to rest. For he was very tired; he'd travelled miles and miles with those invitations.

As he was passing through the forest, he met the Wind.

"Halloa," whistled the Wind. "Where are you off to?"

"The Land of the Sunset Fairies," replied the Royal Messenger. "I am taking an invitation to the Royal Christening Party. Then I must go to the Land of the Dawn Fairies to deliver theirs."

"Don't be in such a hurry," grumbled the Wind. "Stay and have a romp with me."

"I'd love to," cried the Messenger. "But you know I mustn't, because I'm on royal business. Wait till I come back; then, when I've had a rest, we'll have a race."

But the Wind was in a teasing mood. He blew the Messenger about so roughly that he just had to fly here, there and everywhere.

And suddenly, as the Wind disappeared round the corner, the messenger found that he had blown away the Sunset Fairies' invitation. He couldn't find it anywhere, so, feeling terribly nervous, he delivered the one he had left, and went back to report what had happened.

Meantime, there was great excitement down among the Thorn Fairies, for the precious invitation had fallen right in the midst of them!

Now, the Thorn Fairies were banned from all Royal gatherings, for they were so prickly and rude that they offended everyone. Since the day of their banishment, they had been worse than ever in playing every unkind trick they could think of, and they vowed that, until they received another Royal command, they would be as naughty as they possibly could!

When the invitation, bidding "every Fairy of Her Majesty's loyal band welcome" fluttered to their feet, they felt rather sorry they had been unkind, and made up their minds to behave properly in future.

They freshened up their frocks and trotted demurely to the palace.

Of course, the Queen was frightfully cross at first, for she didn't know how they dared to come after being banished. She was just going to send them away, when the Wind came puffing up and confessed what he had done.

So, seeing that the naughty little Thorn Fairies really DID mean to behave, the Queen forgave them, and actually let the Head Thorn hold the baby Princess while the Christening Ceremony was performed.

WENDY'S LITTLE NEEDLEWOMEN.

Marigold Decorations.

Here are ways of trimming three different things—a chair-back, a cushion-cover, and a night dress-case—all with a Marigold design. The actual working is very simple, for the shapes are cut out of appropriately-coloured linen and are then stitched in place on the background material with matching wools.

We'll do the cushion-cover first. To make this, you'll need two squares of crash, (each square twenty-two inches wide) a scrap of orange linen, a scrap of green, and skeins of black, orange, and green wool. Each marigold flower is represented by a circle of orange linen, two-and-a-half inches across. Cut three of these and turn in the raw edges with tacking-stitches. Tack in position on one crash square—the sketch shows the arrangement quite clearly. Sew the circles down with orange wool back-stitching all round. A black satin-stitch spot makes the dark centre of each flower.

The stems are just straight lines of satin-stitch, and should be made about four inches long. Work them in green wool. The leaves should be two inches long and about an inch wide at the widest part. Cut them from the green linen, turn in the edges, and tack in place each side of the stems. Then sew down with green wool back-stitching, just like the marigolds. The diagram shows the finished flower and leaves. Press the work, sew the embroidered and the plain squares together on three sides, and slip the cushion-pad between.

The chair-back is a strip of crash fifteen inches wide and eighteen inches long. Make a hem all round, and applique three marigolds along the lower hem, as you see in the sketch. The central flower has a slightly longer stem.

The night dress-case is a strip of linen fourteen inches wide and thirty-six inches long. Fold in three; so that it measures fourteen inches wide and twelve inches deep. Then work the marigolds on the top flap, as shown in the picture. The outside flowers have stems five inches long, the inside ones are three inches tall. Seam up the sides of the pocket, (made by turning up the dinner flap) and bind all round the embroidered flap with orange bias-binding.

OUR SWEET-MAKING CORNER.

Boiled Sweets.

You will require one pound and a quarter of sugar and half a pint of cold water. Dissolve the sugar in the cold water; then boil the syrup gently for half an hour, or until a little tried in cold water becomes brittle at once. Pour this mixture on to a large dish, and pull it into strips when it is almost cold.

The "pulling" can be done by hanging the slab of sweet stuff over a long nail and pulling it down, or you may do it with your fingers. When it is quite white, cut the strip into small pieces with a pair of scissors and form these into shapes. As the sweet hardens rather quickly, it is better for one person to pull and another to shape it into sweets as it is ready.

Long Ago Stories

Edric And The Comet

Edric was four years old when the Normans came to England. He saw their long ships filled with men in chain armour bringing with them horses, wine, material to build houses, wonderful cooking stoves, in fact everything necessary for their comfort. Duke William of Normandy led them, and as Edric stood on the cliff watching them land, his father pointed to the sky with a trembling hand.

"It had appeared suddenly—a huge flaming star with a golden tail."

It was evening, and in the sky was a strange and marvellous comet. It had appeared suddenly—a huge flaming star with a golden tail spreading across the sky like golden hair. Both Saxons and Normans were afraid of it. They said it was a sign of terrible misfortune. But William of Normandy declared that it was a sign that a great country needed a great king, and he would be that king.

Edric looked at the comet, but he did not know that little Chinese and Egyptian boys had looked at it thousands of years before, and that other boys would look at it thousands of years later.

"Why has it come into our sky, and why does it stay there so still?" asked Edric.

"Misfortune for somebody—the Normans I hope," replied his father. "I must go and fight them."

The Saxons fought bravely, but their King Harold was killed, and William of Normandy took his place. In a few years the Normans were masters of England, and by the time Edric was fourteen the life of the country had changed.

Now under the Saxons Edric was a freeman, and the forests and rivers were free to him, also the great tracts of moor and pasture. But when William became King of England he said that the very earth belong to him, and he could give it to whom he pleased. He gave the wide park where Edric lived to one of his nobles, and this noble called the people together and said they must obey him. He commanded them to work for him, ordered them to pay for the right of living on his land, and forbade them to kill a deer, shoot a bird, or even marry without his permission.

"The earth belongs to nobody!" cried Edric fiercely. "You cannot own a man—we are not slaves!"

"The comet told us to take this land and we have taken it," replied the noble. "You are mine."

Edric believed him, and with proud step he went with the others to build a stone castle for the conqueror.

Hundreds of years later there lived a boy who loved stars, and his name was Halley. The star that interested him most was a marvellous comet which he never saw, but which the ancients had seen, and which Edric had seen in 1066, and others had seen in 1682. Halley felt sure, from the descriptions he read in old books, that it was the same comet travelling through space and appearing at certain fixed times. So he made calculations and predicted that it would come again in 1758. Sure enough, it suddenly appeared in the sky that year. Halley, alas, died the year before, but it has been called Halley's comet ever since.

In the under surface, spaced as shown at E, to take the ends of three-eighths-inch dowels projecting from the top of each leg. Glue the dowels into the top, and strengthen the stand, if necessary, with small brass angle-brackets.

FRENCH NOTE GIVEN TO SIR JOHN SIMON.

British Government In Possession Of Facts.

FRANCO-GERMAN CONVERSATION.

London, To-day.
The French Ambassador called yesterday morning at the Foreign Office and was received by Sir John Simon, to whom M. De Fleuriau handed for his information a draft of the Note which the French Government are despatching in answer to the German Government's Note of August 29. It is necessary to make clear that this document was communicated to Sir John not for the purposes of consultation, but on the score of information, and Sir John Simon thanked M. De Fleuriau for his courtesy.

It will be recalled that the German Note has already been handed to His Majesty's Government for their information. The Government are thus fully in possession of the facts regarding the latest phase of the Franco-German conversations, which will continue to receive their very careful study.—British Wireless Service.

FRIGHTFUL TOLL IN SHIP EXPLOSION.

port which shook the city, and hastened to the waterfront. There they volunteered to give what help they could to hastily organised rescue parties.

Eye-witnesses tell sordid details of the tragedy. They had seen men, fragments of men, and horribly shattered bodies, hurled high in the air and dropped into the river. The ship, her upper works smashed to tinder and her bottom apparently blown out, sank in a few seconds and the few, stunned and shocked men who still clung to her went down in the wreck. At least 100 others were left in the river, some of them unconscious, some dead, some tortured by their injuries and crying out in an agony.

Rescue craft picked up survivors and bodies alike as rapidly as possible and police boats hastened to the scene.

Many Missing.

After a full day's search, however, there were many still missing, or at least unaccounted for. The numerous small craft which picked up single or small numbers of survivors, however, made a check up difficult and it was hoped that some of the 50 or more men listed as missing were safe ashore.

Scenes of a most pathetic nature were common along the foreshore, where weeping wives, mothers and sweethearts waited and watched for the landing of the dead and maimed.

The Observation was a wooden vessel of 83 tons net, and was built at Brooklyn in 1888. Owned by the American Merchant Marine Corporation, it has a length of 92 feet, 17 feet beam, and 9 feet draught.—Reuter.

AMERICAN RAILWAYMEN THREATEN STRIKE.

Outcry Against Proposal For Big Wage Cuts.

Chicago, To-day.

Labor Brotherhoods throughout the country are incensed at the recommendation of the Railway Executives' Committee for a 20 per cent. reduction of railwaymen's wages, to be made early in the year.

The Railway employees themselves are agitated and there is every reason to believe that they may strike and tie up the entire railroad system of the country unless they are given satisfaction. The danger of a general strike is also believed to exist.—Reuter.

CHINESE ADJUNCT LICENCES.

New Form For New Territories.

LIQUOR WITH MEALS.

A new form of licence and conditions for Chinese Restaurant Licences in the northern and southern districts of the New Territories, other than New Kowloon, has just been prescribed by the Governor in Council.

The draft of the new conditions states that the holder of the licence may sell to Chinese people only, intoxicating liquors, in quantities not exceeding two gallons at a time on the premises covered by the licence, and must be consumed in connection with a bona fide meal costing at least 30 cents.

No bar may be kept on the premises under the licence, and no disorder permitted. No liquor can be sold to any drunken person. Other regulations governing the premises state that the restaurant must be closed between the hours of 12 midnight and 6 a.m., and that the licence may be withdrawn by the Governor-in-Council at any time.

Building Regulations.

Except with the special exemption in writing of the District Officer no ceiling (not being the underside of a floor), hollow wall or stairlining can remain or be fixed in any building in which or in part or parts of which the premises of the licensee are situate and, except as aforesaid, if any such ceiling, hollow wall or stairlining is found in any such building the District Officer may declare the forfeiture of the licence.

The whole of the ground floor of the premises must be covered with a layer of not less than 3 inches of cement concrete rendered smooth and laid to the satisfaction of the District Officer.

While working on board the s.s. Maunawili, lying in harbour yesterday morning, a coolie, Wong Ping-tong, 24, was accidentally struck and killed by an iron shackle.

BRITAIN PROTESTS BANDIT MURDERS.

Nicaraguan Situation
Calls For Action.

11 SUBJECTS SLAIN.

London, To-day.

An announcement is made that the British Government is making representations to Managua regarding the murder of Britishers in Nicaragua by bandits, recalls the fact that eleven Britishers have been murdered there since April, 1931.

Some greater measure of protection must be guaranteed, or else Britain will take other steps to ensure the safety of her subjects, it is reported.—Reuter.

PENILESS GRANDEES.

This Expropriation Bill deprives almost all of Spain's 300 grandees of their possessions. They are ruined. The Duke of Madinaceli, recently deprived of an area including 30 villages for his alleged share in a monarchist plot, now loses the last of his lands, in a 125,000-acre block. The ancient family of the Duke is penniless. It was one of the greatest of the land-owning lines of Spain.

After four months of intense labour, with a Monarchist revolt at the end of it and suspected Communist uprisings under the surface the whole time, the Cortes is ready to prorogue at once.—Reuter.

ENGLAND PLAYERS SHINE.

Woolley 75.

The Rest of England were largely indebted to a characteristic innings by Frank Woolley for their lead of 81 runs on the first innings. The Kent left-hander treated the bowling with scant respect to score 75. The tourists recovered splendidly in their second effort and, with Wyatt offering a stubborn front, they were able to declare at 401 for 5-370 runs ahead. Wyatt followed up his first innings score of 81 by hitting up 171 not out in 255 minutes. His sterling display included nineteen boundaries. Faced with a huge task the Rest of England collapsed sensationally for 129.

Yorkshiremen in Form.

The All-India XI, playing in the last match of their long and arduous tour, managed to draw with H. D. G. Leveson-Gower's XI at Scarborough. Sutcliffe and Leyland, two of the three Yorkshire players to tour Australia this winter, scored 106 and 70, respectively, to give Leveson-Gower's XI the chance of declaring at 305 for 5.

Jupp's Success.

Vallance Jupp defeated the aims of the Indian, snatching first innings points by taking half the wickets for 86 runs to dismiss the side for 280. Amar Singh, by scoring 107, registered his second century of the tour, which is excellent going for a stock bowler. The tourists were then forced to give the home team's opening pair batting practice before the close of play when the scoreboard read 99 for no wicket.—Reuter.
